Version number (internal purposes only): 20210714-Revision 2

March 2021

This data has been collected through proactive research of major media platforms, including the use of three different monitoring systems to gain automatic updates. Due to under-reporting or incorrect categorisation we know that this data is incomplete and that, in the absence of official data, it may be the best available.

- Severity of injury is classified as defined in STATS19 Severity is defined as STAT19 5 or falling in one of three possible categories. However, we are aware that it might not be the perfect categorisation as it is not official data.
- Category of injury includes any cases where a person was killed as a result of a crash. It does not include death from indirect causes of death.
- Severity of injury includes but is not limited to: fracture, internal injury, severe cuts, crushing burns, concussion and fatalities occurring 20 or more days after the crash. Serious (concussion and others) although not necessarily) detailed in hospital for treatment.
- Slight injury includes but is not limited to: sprains, whiplash, abrasions, slight cuts, and slight shock requiring medical attention. Slight injuries can also include but not necessarily be treated at the casualty.
